NHL takes over JLC

Detroit's first exhibition game in London since 1993 Ian White pots shootout winner

A shootout was needed in the exhibition game between the Detroit Red Wings and the Philadelphia Flyers at the John Labatt Centre on Thursday night.

Overtime solved nothing, but Ian White finally ended the game in the eighth shootout round, slipping a shot past Flyers' goalie Michael Leighton to give Detroit a 4-3 victory.

The preseason contest was a lacklustre affair until Philadelphia's James van Riemsdyk took over in the second half of the game. The Flyers' left winger scored two goals and assisted on Wayne Simmonds' game-tying goal with less than a minute left in regulation time to knot the game at three.

"In the preseason, you're still trying to work some things out — get back that game form," van Riemsdyk said. "The key is to get better and better each game you're out there."

The pace in the second period quickened considerably.

"Sometimes it takes you a little bit to get going — I think we got better as the game went on," van Riemsdyk said.

Down 2-0 in the second, Philadelphia's Claude Giroux was stopped on a breakaway, but gathered his miss and fed van Riemsdyk in the slot to put Philadelphia on the board.

Detroit thoroughly outplayed the Flyers in the third period as the puck was in Philadelphia's end for most of the 20 minutes. But the Flyers stormed back with two late goals: a power-play marker by van Riemsdyk and Simmonds' aforementioned tally with the net empty. ● MIKE ARSENAULT

Trails End owner lands in hot water

Human-rights complaints filed against farmers market Business revenue lost, compensation needed for pain, suffering: Claimants' counsel

ANGELA MULLINS
@METRONEWS.CA

Karen Clarke-McIlwain and Dani Dominick had an unorthodox introduction last June.

Dominick, living in Windsor at the time, posted a line on Kijiji identifying herself as a transgender person and in need of a place to live in London. Clarke-McIlwain responded, acknowledging she didn't know what "trans" meant, but she had a room to offer.

So goes the beginning of the story that has the women filing complaints with the Ontario Human Rights Commission. The complaints come after Trails End farmers market decided Dominick — and two other transgender people — couldn't staff Clarke-McIlwain's booth at the Dundas Street farmers market.

"I've filed lots and lots of human-rights cases against people and companies, and never once in all of eternity have I had a slam dunk like this," said Michelle Boyce, executive director of a non-profit that works with the LGBT community.

Petition

- More than 1,000 people have signed a petition at change.org to speak out against what happened at Trails End.
- The petition aims to send the message that it's "discriminatory to forbid certain individuals" from doing business at an establishment.

Boyce started working on the complaint Sept. 10, the same day a Trails End manager told Clarke-McIlwain that transgendered people weren't welcome.

Dominick had been staffing the booth all summer, Boyce said.

Ed Kikkert, the market's owner, stands firmly behind the decision, saying he received multiple complaints about the "men dressed as women."

"If they have to go to the washroom, what washroom would they use?" Kikkert said Thursday. "I run a family market, and when I get complaints like that I have to deal with it."

Clarke-McIlwain had operated True 2 You, a candle-and-incense business, at Trails End for three years.

Bikers for Brains getting set to ride

MIKE ARSENAULT
LONDON@METRONEWS.CA

Motorcycle enthusiasts throughout London are being asked to bring their hogs, choppers, bikes, and crotch rockets to Forest City Honda on Sunday morning for a scenic ride and to raise money for the Brain Tumour Foundation of Canada.

"It's something a little bit different than a lot of other charities," said Jamie Fleet, media contact for Bikers for Brains 2011.

Organizers are hopeful to attract approximately 50 riders, but neither mastery of a motorcycle nor a daredevil's need for speed is required.

"It doesn't have to be a convoy," Fleet said. "There will be lots of people who don't (ride) all the time.

"There's lot of women riders — people with passengers," he added. "Safety is a major concern for us as well. You will find people with your own skill level there."

Sunday

- Registration begins at 9 a.m. with the ride starting at 10:30 a.m. and lasting approximately two and a half hours.
- Forest City Honda is at 1240 Wharncliffe Rd. S.
- Registration costs $40 per rider and $20 per passenger.
- Register online at braintumour.ca.

Police Taser teen during fight

Two people were in police custody Thursday after a fight that resulted in a Taser being fired at a 17-year-old boy.

Police were called to a disturbance at Dundas and Maitland streets at about 11:30 a.m., Const. Dennis Rivest said. When they arrived, there was a large crowd and a fight was in progress.

Rivest could not confirm if the 17-year-old was a student at nearby Beal or Catholic Central high schools. The teen was taken to hospital for evaluation of injuries received during the fight, Rivest said.

The age of the other person — also male — taken into custody was not available Thursday afternoon.

He was being held at police headquarters.

Police are continuing to investigate and have not released additional details.

Rivest did not know Thursday if charges would be filed. METRO

Hunter ready for new season, new challenges

London went 3-1-1 in the preseason • Team will kick off the season on Friday at the JLC against the Saginaw Spirit

MIKE ARSENAULT/FOR METRO

JIM REYNO
@METRONEWS.CA

They come to him raw, inexperienced, sometimes a little wide-eyed. They leave ready for the next phase of their careers, some destined for greatness.

Just like Corey Perry did 10 years ago, London Knights coach Dale Hunter remembers.

"I said to Corey, 'Do you remember when you were 16?'" Hunter said. "And he goes, 'Yeah, I was scared. I didn't know what to expect.'

"He was 16 — and now he's MVP of the National Hockey League. That's the enjoyment of coaching."

So here we go again. Some new players, some veterans, some 20-odd athletes trying to find their roles, their niches, on the 2011-12 edition of the Knights.

"The team's a little scrambly at the start of the year all the time, through exhibition," Hunter said at the start of training camp. "You're trying young kids, you're giving every kid a chance to make the team."

"They want to see passion.... That's what makes sports great. You watch it and you care about your home team, and you see the players busting their tails that hard out there." LONDON COACH DALE HUNTER

Then, the passes start hitting the tape more frequently, the power play starts to click, everyone learns the gameplan.

"It starts to gel once you get the team cut right down to your regulars, you start practising every day," said Hunter, CHL coach of the year in 2004. "They just seem to get better and gel together.

"The first three or four weeks, it's always slower. They're not playing as a team as much. And then they gel together in a month. They always do."

Hunter describes his defence as "big, strong and mobile," led by six-foot-seven trio Jarred Tinordi, Troy Donnay and Kyle Flemington.

▶ Michael Houser

In goal: London's "ace in the hole," third-year Knight Michael Houser.

"He's one of the best goalies in the OHL — I think he could be the best in the OHL," said Hunter. "He can save the day for us, which he did last year. We look for big things from him."

Up front, the team's top three scorers are expected to return: Jared Knight, Vladislav Namestnikov and Seth Griffith. And some raw talent is here as well.

"We've got some good young men coming in as 16-year-olds, like Max (Domi) and Bo (Horvat)," Hunter said. "We've got a lot of young forwards, but we've got some pretty good ones."

How good? We'll find out.

"I enjoy coaching these young kids," said Hunter. "Every three, four years there's a turnover of kids, so it's a new project, new kids coming in. I'm trying to get them ready for the National Hockey League."

Big Knight nights

Throughout the season, the London Knights will be holding various special events at their games at the JLC. Here's a sampling, with opponent and game time:

- Friday, Sept. 23 — 10th-anniversary home opener at the John Labatt Centre. Saginaw Spirit, 7:30 p.m.
- Friday, Nov. 4 — Corey Perry night. Brampton Batallion, 7:30 p.m.
- Friday, Nov. 11 — Remembrance Day. Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, 7:30 p.m.
- Friday, Dec. 16 — 12th annual Teddy Bear Toss. Guelph Storm, 7:30 p.m.
- Friday, Jan. 20 — Rick Nash night. Owen Sound Attack, 7:30 p.m.
- Friday, Feb. 10 — House of Pink in support of A Rose in My Book and the London regional cancer program. Plymouth Whalers. 7:30 p.m.

Memories from the John Labatt Centre

The London Knights are celebrating their 10th anniversary at the John Labatt Centre this season. We asked Londoners through social media what their best Knights memories of the past decade at the JLC were. Here's what you said:

On Twitter:

- @maxamilli: The feeling of leaving the JLC after a win when the streets were flooded with happiness
- @forratschoco: Every year the teddybear toss, my fav game and tear up everytime, seeing all the flying bears etc..seeing #ldnont generosity
- @LondonCity1973: Being on the Barney's Patio when they won the Memorial Cup and watching the reaction! They had to shut down Richmond St.
- @BrianBlatnicki: In the 2004–05 season, when the Knights broke a CHL record, going 31 games in a row without a loss
- @AndrewEchidna: when Rimouski jumped out to a two goal lead in game one of the Memorial cup - then the Knights came back to win in OT
- @downtownjanette: @themetrolondon during the playoffs in 2005 the Knights had a delayed penalty and passed the puck at least 35 times then scored!!
- @joelcadams: @themetrolondon I love watching the huge crowds of people having fun in @Downtown_London every Friday night!

On Facebook:

- Joe Fuller: Winning the Memorial Cup obviously. Not a tough question to answer.
- Paul Nagy: Winning the Memorial Cup, and spanking Crosby's butt in the process.
- Katie Naus: Watching the games during the Memorial Cup and seeing London come alive to support the London Knights

Knights get superstitious

London Knights Colin Martin and Dane Fox have a number of superstitious rituals they follow before games They believe that keeping the same routine helps them play better

MIKE ARSENAULT
LONDON@METRONEWS.CA

If a professional hockey career doesn't pan out for Colin Martin and Dane Fox, then a spot on America's Best Dance Crew might be a solid backup plan. The London Knights forwards look like members of a hip-hop dance squad with their pre-period routine.

"We do a handshake before every period, and it's something that we'll continue to do for the rest of our careers," Martin said.

The handshake is just the tip of the iceberg in terms of the players' superstitious rituals and idiosyncrasies.

As a veteran, Martin likes to be the first player on the ice and last player off the ice, but Fox wanted those spots as well. There was a power struggle, but it ended early.

"Fox is the kind of guy who would always try to sneak out on me, but I talked to him," Martin said.

"He's older, he has more rank," Fox said, when asked who won the right to be first and last on the ice. "He's been in the league a lot longer than me."

Like clockwork, Martin and five teammates eat the same lunch each and every day at the same time.

"I eat the same pasta — with chicken, sausage and vegetables. We go to Spageddy Eddy's together — every day at 12:30 — just keep everything the same," Martin said.

The players believe such routines help them prepare for each game.

"We get dressed at certain times," Fox said. "One side of the equipment on before the other. (It) just mentally prepares us and gives us a slight advantage."

MIKE ARSENAULT/FOR METRO

Learn the moves

For those wishing to recreate Colin Martin's and Dane Fox's handshake, here are the steps:

- Low-five palm slap.
- High five with back of hand.
- Low-five palm slap again, with wrist rotation.
- Elbow smash.
- Light headbutt.

Two highly acclaimed rookies join the Knights this season Centre Bo Horvat was taken ninth overall in the OHL priority draft Centre Max Domi was selected eighth overall by the Kingston Frontenacs Knights general manager Mark Hunter acquired Domi from Kingston for three draft picks

New Knights ready to hit the ice

FILE

▶ Bo Horvat

Listen up, London. Rodney is in the house.

In one of the boxes at the home opener Friday, about 110 of Rodney, Ont.'s finest will be whooping it up for the Knights, hollering to the JLC rafters for their boy, Bo.

"I've got lots of friends and family coming to it. It's going to be really loud," Knights rookie Bo Horvat said about the hometown box at the home opener.

"We sold it out in, like, one day. Literally, in a couple of hours. We made phone calls and it was all filled."

Horvat, 16, comes to the Knights with impressive offensive potential. He was the highest-scoring minor midget in Ontario last season with 118 points in just 68 games (47 goals, 71 assists) with the Elgin Middlesex Chiefs. But don't expect to see him lingering around centre, slapping his stick on the ice while his teammates fight for the puck in the defensive zone. Do you think the Hunter brothers would put up with that?

"I put up points — and I play a lot of defence, too," said Horvat. "That's what the Hunters want, and that's what I'm going to do, for sure.

"They want me to play a good defensive game, along with everyone. It always starts with them with defence first. You always have to have defence and then make your way up to offence."

▶ Max Domi

The adjustment from minor hockey to the OHL is a lot to ask of most 16-year-olds, but take that learning curve and add coping with Type 1 diabetes and it can be a heady experience for a lot of players.

Max Domi is taking it all in stride.

"(It's been) a lot of fun," he said. "You're playing with a lot better players, obviously. The coaching staff's first class, and it's definitely a jump from minor hockey. You've got to work hard."

Though Domi came into camp with some fanfare and a stellar minor-midget campaign, the veterans on the team are treating him just like any other rookie.

"Whatever they ask you to do, you've got to do," Domi said. "Pick up pucks, get the water bottles — you've got to play your role on the team. I'm fitting in pretty good so far."

He was diagnosed with diabetes four years ago but he believes the disease actually helps his play.

"In my mind it makes you a better person and a better hockey player because you have to be more dedicated," Domi said.

There are dietary restrictions he has to be aware of — specifically monitoring his sugar intake — along with managing his exertion levels on the ice.

"I can't really go to town on the Bulk Barn anymore," Domi quipped. "You have to be a little more responsible with what you do.

2 Another former Knight with plenty of bling: Rick Nash was on Canada's Olympic gold-medal-winning squad in 2010, and brought home more gold from the worlds in 2007.

3 OK, kids, can't find the net? Thinking of giving up? Remember Dino Ciccarelli. This former Knight holds the NHL record for most goals by an undrafted player (608).

4 Patrick Kane only spent one season in London, but what a season it was. In 2006-07, Kane was CHL rookie of the year, top draft prospect and top scorer.

5 A storied career both on and off the ice, Darryl Sittler spent three seasons in London before becoming one of the most beloved Maple Leafs of all time. On Feb. 7, 1976, he had maybe the best day ever for anybody in anything: Sittler had six goals and four assists against the Bruins, a record 10 points in one NHL game. METRO

▶ Vladislav Namestnikov

Thanks to the hockey-mad, jersey-wearing Londoners who bleed black, green and gold, Vladislav Namestnikov's transition from junior camp to an NHL camp hasn't been as difficult as you might expect.

Seems the 18-year-old is already used to the spotlight.

"Definitely, it's not that big of a difference. Fan base — there's 9,000 there every night, so it's not that big of a difference," Namestnikov said about playing in London.

Namestnikov is in Tampa Bay, attending the Lightning rookie camp. He was a first-round selection (27th overall) by the Lightning in the June entry draft.

Namestnikov said the camp has allowed him to see how he compares with older, more experienced players.

"I'm obviously only 18 years old. I'm physically not as big as them," he said on the phone from Florida. "But that's the thing I need to work on right now, to get bigger, and that's about it."

And that means: "Hitting the weights, eating right and just putting on weight."

But not too much weight. In the pros, everyone can fly.

"The speed, the speed is way faster here," said Namestnikov. "The shots they take are harder. There's a time adjustment. You have to get used to it, and then it's easier for you."

The following Knights from last season have participated in NHL camps this year:

- Scott Harrington, D, Pittsburgh Penguins
- Jarred Tinordi, D, Montreal Canadiens
- Vladislav Namestnikov, C, Tampa Bay Lightning
- Seth Griffith, RW, Tampa Bay Lightning

Cage-fighting kids prompt uproar

Online video shows English boys grappling in demonstration bout
Police say no charges will be laid

Footage of two slender boys wrestling in a cage in front of a cheering crowd in a British social club drew harsh condemnation Thursday from government officials and children's advocates who blasted the match as barbaric.

The eight-year-old and nine-year-old wore no protective padding or headgear, and at one point one was shown crying.

Politicians and medical experts expressed alarm and police launched an investigation after video was posted on the Internet of the Sept. 10 fight at Greenlands Labour Club, a bar and social club in Preston, northwest England.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

'It's immoral'

Some British cage-fighting advocates said images of young boys fighting were bad publicity for a sport trying to shed a brutal reputation and move into the mainstream.

- "It's not illegal, it's immoral," said Mark Lyons, head of the British Cage Fighting Association.
- "If it was in a gymnasium or a club environment, it's quite acceptable, but in an environment where there's alcohol involved and scantily clad women knocking about, it's not the ideal situation for any child," he said.

Study finds Canada needs a realistic approach to marijuana

New guidelines endorsed by the Canadian Public Health Association

Canada's existing public health approach to cannabis use is unrealistic and should be adjusted to reflect the way the system approaches alcohol, a new article suggested yesterday.

The piece, published in the Canadian Journal of Public Health, concluded the high prevalence of marijuana use throughout the country requires public health practitioners to adjust their thinking around the substance.

"There's a lot of harm to be prevented when you have ... up to three million users in the country who are actively using this drug."
BENEDIKT FISCHER, ARTICLE CO-AUTHOR

Current attitudes towards cannabis use are too rigid to be effective in the current environment, co-author Benedikt Fischer said, adding more than 10 per cent of the adult population and about a third of young adults admit to using the drug in the past year.

Current practices advocating for total abstinence are unrealistic given the drug's widespread popularity, and less tolerant than public health positions towards alcohol, tobacco and even injection drugs, he said.

Fischer said the system should instead adopt a more conciliatory position, urging people to modify their behaviours and reduce their personal health risks.

▶ A man smokes two marijuana joints at a pro-marijuana rally on Parliament Hill in 2008.

The "lower-risk cannabis use guidelines" tabled in the article are modelled on the public health approach used to keep alcohol consumption in check over the years, said Fischer, research chair in applied public health at Simon Fraser University.

"I think alcohol is a really good model, and in fact the model I look to a lot," Fischer said in a telephone interview from Vancouver.

Although abstinence from cannabis is still the safest approach, Fischer said users can take many steps to mitigate the drug's harmful effects.

Limiting the frequency and intensity of cannabis use can have significant long-term health benefits, Fischer said.

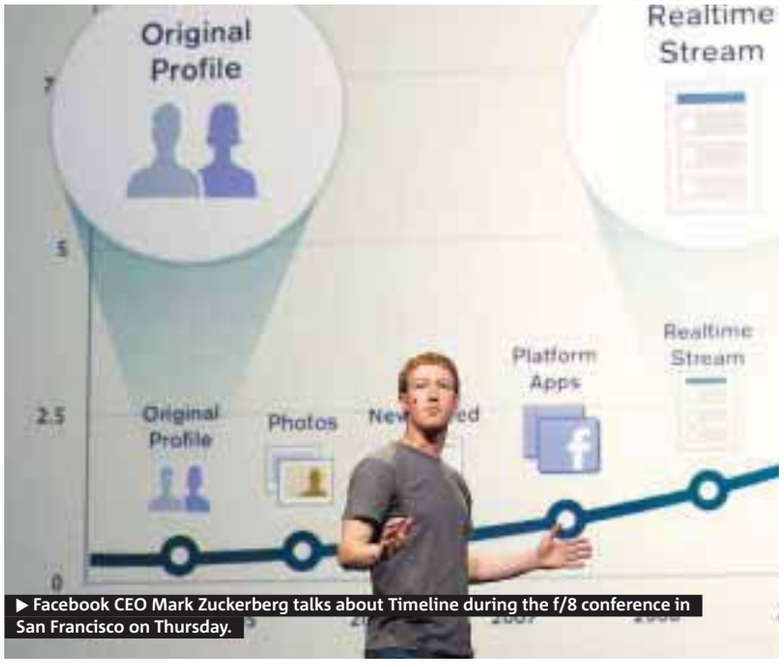
Real virtual reality —next up for Facebook

Zuckerberg announces next wave in the popular networking site with idea styled after scrapbooking

PAUL SAKUMA/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS



▶ Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg talks about Timeline during the f/8 conference in San Francisco on Thursday.

Facebook is dramatically redesigning its users' profile pages to create what CEO Mark Zuckerberg says is a "new way to express who you are."

Zuckerberg introduced the Facebook "timeline" Thursday in San Francisco at the company's f8 conference for some 2,000 entrepreneurs, developers and journalists.

The timeline is reminiscent of an online scrapbook, with the most important photos and text that users have shared on Facebook over the years.

It's Facebook's attempt at growing from an online hangout to a homestead, where people express their real selves and merge their online and offline lives. The timeline can go back to include years before Facebook even existed, so users can add photos and events from, say 1995 when they got married or 1970 when they were born.

Zuckerberg described the timeline as "the story of your life — all your stories, all your apps and a new way to express who you are."

Expanding on its "like" buttons, Zuckerberg said Facebook will now let users connect to things even if they don't want to "like" them.

EVERYBODY KNOWS IT'S ALL GOING TO THE DOGS

THE METRO LIST

PAUL SULLIVAN
METRO

It's that time of the week again, when we bring you the Metro List, the world's most authoritative review of hot topics around the water cooler:

1 REM disbands after 31 years as the rock critics' darlings. What else is there to do after losing your religion? Everybody hurts.

2 Meanwhile Neil Young says he's writing his memoir. Memoir? It was only yesterday that he burst on the scene with Everybody Knows This is Nowhere. Yesterday, as in May 14, 1969, to be precise. OMG, am I ever old.

3 Georgia executes convicted murderer Troy Davis despite intervention from the Pope, Jimmy Carter and P. Diddy. Wonder why they didn't listen?

4 Two and A Half Men starts the fall season with record ratings. Twenty-eight-point-seven-four million people have nothing better to do with their lives. Nothing is, er, lost as Ashton Kutcher and Charlie Sheen appear to be interchangeable morons.

5 Palestinians go to the United Nations and ask for statehood. Can't hurt to ask.

6 In other asking news, the U.S. military finally abolishes Don't Ask, Don't Tell and all the gay generals stay in the closet.

7 Chaz Bono dances his way into respect on Dancing with the Stars. Don't mean a thing if you ain't got that swing. Not bad for a kid who started out as Chastity, the daughter of Sonny and Cher. You've come a long way, baby.

8 Loonie goes below par for the first time since January and drowns. Investors everywhere can relate as we all take a bath. Stocks hit a 13-month low bringing the year-to-date loss to 16.3 per cent. Even gold loses four per cent of its glitter. If this keeps up, I'm going to invest "all my money" in dog food stocks, as that's all retiring boomers will be able to afford to eat.

9 BieberWatch: It's a bad week for the future of the human race as Justin announces 'I want to be a young dad, by 25 or 26 I want to see myself, like, married or start looking for a family.' Maybe he can find one in a village in Africa. You know the same place where Madonna and Angelina get theirs. He also has his own perfume fragrance — eau de pablum. Just kidding! It's called Someday, as in someday I'll reach puberty.

Canadians should rejoice that a low-life criminal monster, Clifford Olson, is reportedly days away from kicking the bucket with terminal cancer, no compassion for this demented animal.

Should anyone feel sadness over the loss of a costly bottom-feeder serial child killer who should have been executed long ago? NO! This trash person has made a mockery of our Mounties, played the courts for fools and sucked taxpayers for millions during his 30 years of incarceration — a fitting end for this despicable hated human being.

There are many more like Olson in jail, including Paul Bernardo, Robert Pickton and Russell Williams who need to be turfed as people like these undesirables are taking us to the cleaners with the high costs to keep them alive in jail.

I do not think many would shed a tear for the passing of this slime.

This story is not about insulting good people suffering a malicious disease — cancer, it is about celebrating the end to a horrific human life who deserves no mercy.

WEIRD NEWS

Hey there butterfingers, you've got spam

If you're prone to mistyping email addresses, here's a new thing to worry about: you could be a target for spammers trying to sell you a dream vacation or a diet product by pretending to be one of your friends.

In a clever twist on spam, some websites with names that are confusingly similar to legitimate sites have been set up to reply to any mail sent to them. The responses are framed as out-of-office replies, but sneak in mentions of a new product or service.

Here's a real-life example of how it works: An Associated Press reporter accidentally sent a message to a "verizonwireless.co" address instead of the proper ".com" and got this response, ostensibly from his contact "tom": "I am out of office right now on a my (sic) dream vacation and will get back to you when I return ... You should check this site to see how I scored the best travel deal for my trip." That's followed by a link to a site that advertises luxury resorts.

The sites are registered by "typo-squatters," whose goal is to make money from advertising as people visit the sites after mistyping an address in their browser. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Synopsis

- Pitt plays Billy Beane, the real-life General Manager of the Oakland A's. Faced with piecing together a pro team with a budget a fourth as large as the New York Yankees he breaks with tradition — using scouts, instinct and guts — to find a scientific method to build a team on the cheap. With a Yale trained economist (Jonah Hill) he creates sabermetrics, a combination of facts, figures and computer algorithms to recruit his team.

A different ball game

Moneyball takes a potentially dry topic — baseball stats — and spices it up with Brad Pitt and Jonah Hill ◗ You don't have to be a sports fan to like this film

Richard: Mark, I liked this movie. The synopsis sounds very dry, but so did The Social Network before you actually sat down and watched it. I thought Moneyball took what could be the dry subject of baseball stats and spiced it up with complex, interesting characters, a compelling human story while leaving the usual sport's movie clichés behind. What did you think?

Mark: I liked it, too. It's a sports movie for people who don't care about sports. What really struck me about it was that while most movies have heroes who believe in intuition and passion, the Brad Pitt character sees reason and science as the path to success. It's kind of a Revenge Of The Nerds story, except that Pitt couldn't look nerdy if he tried. Your comparison with The Social Network is apt, Richard, but Billy Beane is played as a much nicer person than Mark Zuckerberg.

RC: Maybe so, and better looking too. The movie moves at about half the speed of The Social Network but that's OK; we're not dealing with the fast moving world of cyber space here but the more relaxed pace of America's favourite pastime. It's a slow build, but the seventh inning stretch is exciting.

MB: Yes, two excellent set pieces towards the end of the movie: the rapid set of phone calls as players are swapped and dropped, and the montage of record breaking wins that come one after the other. But there's an elegiac tone of melancholy that permeates the picture. For a couple of outsiders who turn out to be right, Pitt and his crony, played admirably by Jonah Hill, seem to derive little pleasure from their victories. This is not a sports movie in which guys high five each other constantly. They're all a pretty gloomy bunch.

RC: This isn't a baseball movie and despite the game footage, it's not a sports movie either. Pitt and Hill, in a rare serious role, dominate the movie with their behind-the-scenes stories. Like The Social Network, Moneyball places the onus on the characters and not the technology that drives the story. We've seen baseball movies before, but we've never seen the game from this angle.

MB: And I can't say enough good things about Pitt's effortless acting or Jonah Hill's wonderful supporting work. He no longer needs the Apatow factory to pay his rent!

Faris takes the lead

Actress tackles her first rom-com lead in What's Your Number?

NED EHRBAR

METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

Though she's well known for comedy, Anna Faris would argue that What's Your Number? is something of a departure for her.

"I had never really done a romantic comedy before," says the actress, who first rose to fame in the Scary Movie franchise.

"Usually I get offered these roles that are crazy and broad, that don't seem like very real characters. And this seemed like a very grounded character. And it was such a strong script."

The new film also marks the second time (after 2008's the House Bunny) that Faris has served as executive producer on one of her projects — but she doesn't think you should read too much into that.

"I came on as an executive producer, which really doesn't mean much. They pretend to ask your opinion," she says with a laugh.

"Sometimes they listened and sometimes they didn't." One of the areas where they apparently didn't listen to Faris was on her character's look.

"I had a look initially that I wanted to present as Ally. I wanted her to be a little chunky and a brunette and a little just sloppy — like unemployed, tennis shoes. But then there was a lot of disagreement about that element," she says. "I understand that visually, it's fun to wear nice clothes and nice heels, and I get that she has a rich mom so that's how we justified her Prada shoes, but I don't know. I'm sort of yearning to play the sloppier characters and to play characters that are a little more real."

And it's becoming more likely to see those characters on screen, Faris is happy to say, thanks to the surge of female-fronted comedy led by Bridesmaids, the summer's surprise hit. "Bridesmaids had women pooping in the streets. The world's our oyster now," she says, laughing proudly.

A battle with cancer leads screenwriter to pen film about his experiences starring real-life best friend Seth Rogen in role as... best friend

NED EHRBAR

METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

HANDOUT

▶ As well as starring in 50/50 alongside Joseph Gordon-Levitt, left, Seth Rogen served as one of the film's producers.

Screenwriter Will Reiser looks back on his own battle with a rare form of spinal cancer in 50/50, with Joseph Gordon-Levitt standing in for him as Adam, a young radio producer dealing with a life-changing diagnosis. But when it came to casting Adam's best friend, the obvious choice was Reiser's real-life best friend, Seth Rogen (who also serves as a producer on the film).

You were in the unique position of writing a character based on your best friend that would be played by that same best friend.

I'm really proud of the performance Seth gave. I think that he did a really great job. And I think a part of that is Joe — not to discredit Seth, but Joe is so real and so grounded that I think that it made it really easy for Seth to play off him. It was just a really relaxed set. The character's not necessarily Seth, per se. It's sort of an extension of Seth. There are definitely elements of his personality that I incorporated. Like when we were that age, I was a neurotic mess, I worried about everything. I was really uptight, and Seth would just make fun of me. That was our dynamic, and that's very much true to Adam and Kyle.

And you're not a neurotic mess anymore?

I'm a much different person. It sounds cliché to say that, but I think going through that experience, writing about it, I think it brought me out of my shell a little bit. In the movie, with Joe and Seth's characters, it's not like they sit around and talk about their feelings. And that's very much how Seth and I were. It wasn't like we dealt with it by talking about how we felt. We just made jokes. We just talked about the absurdity of it all. But the actual process of making the movie forced us to talk about those things. Maybe I was this way, maybe I did do certain things. Maybe I did push my mother away and put pressure on other people when I was sick. It was very helpful just to see myself from a different point of view. It's incredibly therapeutic.

So why the title change from I'm With Cancer?

We tested that along with a bunch of other titles, and we just found that I'm With Cancer just kind of scared audiences away, just the idea of cancer. Which is interesting because our whole marketing campaign is really about being honest about it and not trying to hide. I liked the idea of cancer being in the title. Because, you know, when I set out to write the movie, I really wanted to challenge the idea of what is acceptable to talk about in film. Cancer is this kind of taboo subject, and it's almost like the movie can't be about cancer, it's got to be about something else and then cancer is just this plot point in the script. Whereas I really wanted it to be just a meditation on the experience of illness and just go through this journey with this character and really explore what it's all about. It was hard for a few of us to let go of [I'm With Cancer] because we were all really attached to it, but 50/50 works.

Abduction
Genre: Action
Director: John Singleton
Stars: Taylor Lautner, Lily Collins, Alfred Molina
Abduction is supposed to be Twilight third wheel Taylor Lautner's breakout role as not only an actor who can headline a film but also as an action star. Unfortunately, he picked a project that is poorly written and lazily executed. Lautner is a high school student whose work on a class project about missing persons leads him to a website featuring a photo of a familiar face: his own. Soon, a chain of events unfolds that leaves the people he thought were his parents dead and him and the girl next door (Lily Collins) on the run.
In theory, this should be a terse thriller. But instead, Abduction is a teen angst-ridden film. But any concerns about the quality of the movie certainly won't stop his rabid Twilight fans from showing up.

●●●½
A charming story about a young marine animal that was saved with the use of a prosthetic after losing its tail in a tragic accident, Dolphin Tale is as enriching and wholesome as a family movie comes.
But even with the weight of stars like Morgan Freeman, director Charles Martin Smith smartly allows the movie's subject and star to upstage the human actors and give the story added heft with her inspirational and awe-inspiring true story.

Killer Elite
Genre: Action
Director: Gary McKendry
Stars: Jason Stathman, Clive Owen, Robert De Niro
●●
It should be exciting, really, given the source material: British ex-military officer Ranulph Fiennes, supposedly true account of the SAS's dirty dealings in the Middle East in the 1980s. Stay with us now: The film follows a mercenary (Jason Statham) whose mentor (Robert De Niro) gets him tied up with an Omani oil magnate who wants three retired British soldiers killed because their covert meddling caused the deaths of his sons. But wait, there's more. Another retired British soldier (Clive Owen) is tasked by a shadowy secret society to keep the targets alive. It's... yeah.
Ultimately, Killer Elite is weighed down by its own moral ambiguity and self-seriousness.

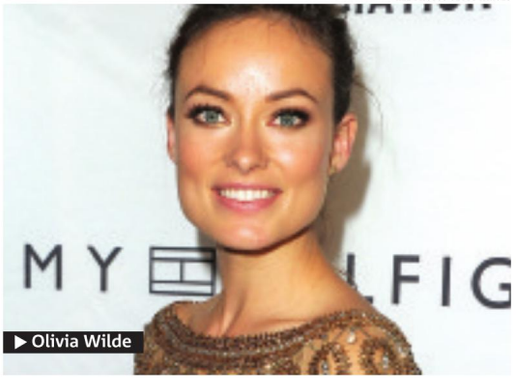
Olivia keeping quiet about her new boyfriend

Actress reveals that she's seeing someone but won't say who it is

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES



▶ Olivia Wilde

Olivia Wilde is off the market.

When asked by Britain's OK magazine if she's dating anyone, the actress gives a simple response: "Yeah."

While she's not revealing the identity of her new suitor, she hints that he certainly knows how to impress her.

"I like it if the guy possesses creativity and doesn't take me to a boring restaurant or a boring whatever but comes up with an interesting location. I like to be surprised, for sure," she says.

Coincidentally, Wilde has been spotted spending time with Ryan Reynolds — and the pair looked anything but bored. METRO

▶ Scarlett Johansson

Putting her nude photo scandal behind her, Scarlett Johansson is reportedly focusing on her love life.

The actress was spotted taking a cosy midnight stroll in Paris with Kieran Culkin before flying back to the U.S. together the next day, according to Us Weekly.

But then she's also reportedly been getting friendly with Justin Timberlake, as the pair were spotted "hardcore flirting" at a recent party in New York.

"Other guys were trying to talk with Scarlett, but she was only focused on Justin," a source says, adding that the they partied until 5:30 a.m. before heading back to her midtown penthouse. METRO

Jewish eats — Mazel tov!

Rosh Hashanah is around the corner In keeping with tradition, this Honey-Thyme Glazed Chicken with Cider Gravy uses seasonal ingredients

You may not think of Jewish cooking as trendsetting, but truth is it has been focused on seasonal recipes sporting local ingredients since long before farmers markets became the darling of the foodie scene. And the Jewish New Year meal, served at Rosh Hashanah, shows this unintended hipness.

Honey-thyme glazed chicken with cider gravy has a sweet autumnal flavour that can be tailored to your region by using a local wildflower honey and a cider made with heirloom apples.

MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ This recipe serves 10.

Preparation:

1. Heat oven to 220 C (425 F); oven rack should be middle of oven.
2. Pat chickens dry and rub 15 ml (1 tbsp) of oil over each. Sprinkle inside and outside with salt, pepper and 5 ml (1 tsp) each of the thyme. Stuff each with 2 onion quarters. Tuck wings behind back and tie legs together kitchen twine.
3. Arrange chickens, breast side down, on V-rack set inside roasting pan. Roast until golden, about 45 mins. Remove roasting pan from oven and carefully, using paper towels, flip chickens breast side up. Raise oven temp to 230 C (450 F). Pour wine and water into roasting pan. Return pan to oven and roast until thigh meat registers 74 to 77 C (165 to 170 F), about 1 hour. If pan dries out, add more water 125 ml (1/2 cup) at a time.
4. Glaze: In saucepan over medium heat, combine butter and 10 ml (2 tsp) of thyme. Melt butter and cook, stirring, 5 mins. Add honey and 125 ml (1/2 cup) of apple cider, simmer until glaze thickens and reduces, about 10 mins. Stir in 15 ml (1 tbsp) of lemon juice; set aside.
5. Remove roasting pan from oven and brush chickens with thick layer of glaze and continue to roast until glaze is golden brown, about 10 mins. Transfer chickens to cutting board, brush with the remaining glaze and let rest for 15 mins. before cutting.
6. Cider gravy: Whisk 125 ml (1/2 cup) chicken broth, flour in a bowl until smooth. Set aside.
7. Set roasting pan over 2 burners on medium-high heat. Add remaining cider and bring to boil. Cook, scraping up bits from pan, until liquid reduced by about half, about 5 mins. Add remaining 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) broth. Increase heat to high and return to a boil, whisk often. Boil until liquid reduced by about half, 5 mins.
8. Whisk reserved flour-broth mix into pan. Boil, whisking constantly, until gravy thickens, 3 mins. Remove from heat and pour through sieve into large measuring cup. Stir in remaining 15 ml (1 tbsp) lemon juice and season with salt and pepper, to taste. Serve chicken with cider gravy for passing.

Ingredients:

- 2 whole chickens (each 1.8 to 2.2 kg or 4 to 5 pounds), giblets discarded
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) olive oil
- Kosher salt, to taste
- Black pepper, to taste
- 20 ml (4 tsp) dried thyme
- 1 large yellow onion, quartered
- 180 ml (3/4 cup) dry white wine
- 180 ml (3/4 cup) water
- 60 ml (4 tbsp) butter
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) honey
- 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) apple cider, divided
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) lemon juice
- 500 ml (2 cups) chicken broth
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) flour

Holiday meaning

While the foods of Rosh Hashanah are most often acknowledged for their emblematic value — apples and honey to represent a sweet year to come — they also are intentionally seasonal for the symbolic and practical reasons of wanting to celebrate the hope of new beginnings by using what you have on hand in early fall.

Wine's kosher side

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

With Rosh Hashanah next week, the sales of kosher wines are sure to increase.

Kosher wines are made with Sabbath-observant Jews present during all aspects of the wine's creation. To be approved as a kosher wine for consumption during Passover, the same applies but there can't be any dough, bread or grain near the winery.

With all those rules, you'd think kosher wines would wind up tasting way too processed. Well, in the past many did. Inferior grapes were often used to make wines that were simple, sweet and inevitably more drinkable by a wider audience of orthodox Jews.

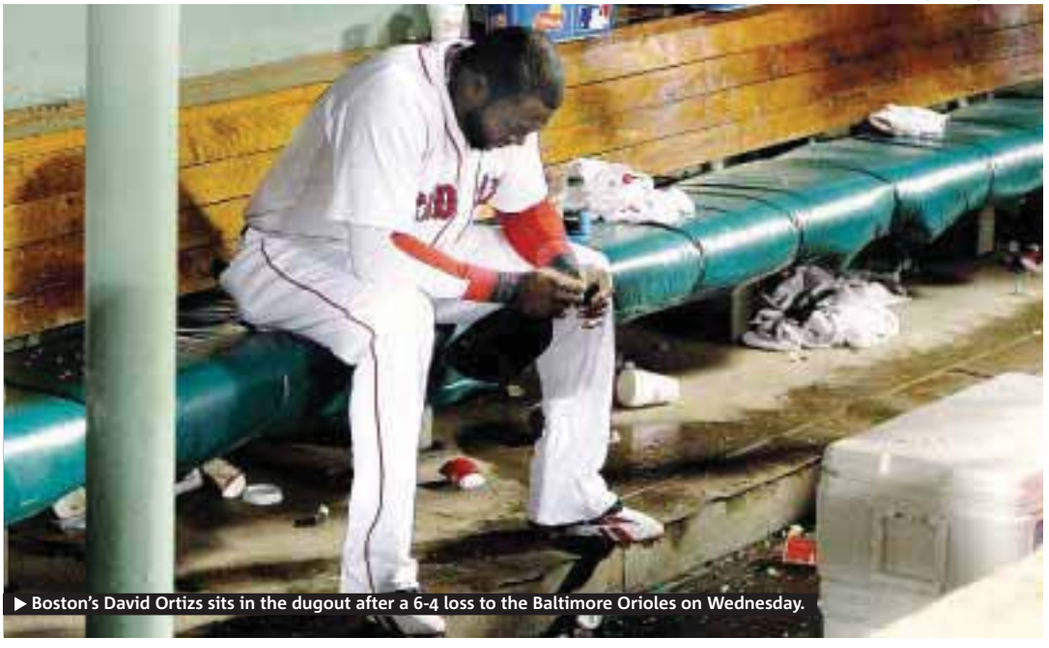
Times have changed, with Israel a leader in kosher wine. Israeli wines are typically rich and textured, with the Yarden 2009 Mount Hermon Red ($16.95 - $22.00) a New World inspired triple-blend that balances its berry burst with a nice undercurrent of ripe tannin.

As good as Israeli wines are, kosher wines can be and are made around the world. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

No easy road for Red Sox

Struggles on field have made race for wild-card spot uncomfortably close for Boston

JIM ROGASH/GETTY IMAGES



▶ Boston's David Ortizs sits in the dugout after a 6-4 loss to the Baltimore Orioles on Wednesday.

The pitching is in shambles. The hitting is spotty. And the defence?

The Boston Red Sox are dropping the ball there, too.

In less than three weeks, they've blundered their way from a smooth ride to the playoffs to a bumpy trip toward a spot on the list of historic collapses. And, somehow during their wacky September, they still have the inside track on a post-season berth.

But, boy, what a way to go.

"I've been here, what, nine years? We've never collapsed that bad," said David Ortiz, his room-brightening smile replaced by a blank stare. "We've been through some tough times, (but) it's bad. No matter what we do, things are going to be bad."

The free-fall began on Sept. 4 when the Red Sox began play with a nine-game lead over Tampa Bay in the AL wild-card race — more like a runaway at the time — and just a half-game deficit in the AL East standings behind the New York Yankees.

Since then, they are 4-14. Going into Thursday's games, they led the Rays and Los Angeles Angels by just 2½ games for the wild-card spot and were 7½ games behind the Yankees, who clinched the division title on Wednesday night.

It would have been worse if the Rays hadn't lost a doubleheader to the Yankees while the Red Sox were falling to Baltimore 6-4. They got a break from the misery on a Thursday with a day off while the Rays and Angels played. That will leave each of the contenders with six games remaining.

But the Red Sox must go into Yankee Stadium for the start of a three-game series on Friday night before finishing with three in Baltimore.

"Nobody's going to lay down for us. Nobody's going to hand us any wins," captain and catcher Jason Varitek said. "We've got to go out there and get it on our own."

54
During the current 4-14 slide, Boston has scored just 54 runs in the losses, the same number they've put up in the wins.

A few wins over the Yankees should quiet comparisons to the New York Mets' collapse of 2007 when they missed the playoffs, squandering a seven-game lead by going 5-12 in their last 17 games.

"Anything left that we can try," second baseman Dustin Pedroia asked. "We can play better. That's basically it."

Before the latest loss, pitcher Tim Wakefield snuck a peak over his shoulder at the clubhouse television as he walked toward the field, glove in hand. It was the ninth inning of the Yankees' 4-2 win over the Rays in the opener of the doubleheader.

The TV was off after Boston coughed up a late lead for the second straight day, walking back to the clubhouse to loud boos from home fans one day after the team passed the three million mark in attendance. At the time, the Yankees were minutes away from another 4-2 win.

"We have to take care of ourselves and then from there we'll worry about what happens," Varitek said, "but we control what we do by playing good baseball."

Bans show Shanahan is serious

A new sheriff truly is in town.

Brendan Shanahan delivered a strong message as the NHL embarked on a new era of discipline, handing Flyers forward Jody Shelley a 10-game suspension and Calgary forward Pierre-Luc Letourneau-Leblond a five-game ban Thursday and accompanying each with a slick video explanation.

The videos were posted to the NHL's website, with the new senior vice-president for player safety and hockey operations describing what rule was broken while replays were shown.

Shelley was suspended for the rest of the pre-season and the first five regular season games after hitting Maple Leafs forward Darryl Boyce from behind on Wednesday night.

"The video clearly shows that Boyce has his back to Shelley well before the contact," Shanahan explained on the video. "Boyce does not put himself in this position immediately prior to, or simultaneously, with the check. Shelley has time to avoid the check completely or at the very least minimize the contact."

Letourneau-Leblond was also disciplined for a breach of the NHL's new expanded boarding guidelines.

On Tuesday night, the Flames forward hammered Matt Clackson of the Vancouver Canucks into the side boards from behind.

"Leblond has time to avoid, or at the very least, minimize the check," said Shanahan. "Instead, Leblond takes a direct route and drives through the check hard and high and from behind."

Shanahan replaced Colin Campbell in June and was given a mandate to increase player safety. He plans to issue a video with each ruling in an effort to bring transparency to the decision-making process — an area where critics felt Campbell fell short.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cracking down

The first rulings issued Thursday should put NHL players on alert.

- Jody Shelley is considered a repeat offender after being suspended twice last season and will forfeit $67,073.15 US in salary.
- Pierre-Luc Letourneau-Leblond, also a repeat offender, will give up $6,402.44 in salary while sitting out Calgary's remaining four pre-season games and its regular-season opener.

Sports in brief

President Barack Obama is showing some love for his hometown Chicago Bears.

A White House official says the president is inviting members of the Bears 1985 Super Bowl championship team to the White House on Oct. 7.

Super Bowl champions are traditionally honoured with a visit to the White House. But plans for the 1985 Bears to come to Washington were scrapped when the space shuttle Challenger exploded just days after their victory in January 1986.
